SAN CLEMENTE, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Pacific Coast National Bank (PCNB) (OTCBB:PCNB), a leading Southern California-based community business bank, has just strengthened an already-strong Board of Directors by adding Charles "Ted" Owen and James M. Morrison – 2 of San Diego's most senior business executives – to their Board.

Ted Owen is widely recognized as Mr. San Diego in the San Diego business community. After a distinguished career in U.S. Marine Corps, Ted has served as Director of the Greater San Diego Chamber of Commerce and then as the President and Publisher of the San Diego Business Journal. He has 27 years of service in the private sector, has served on more than 150 boards and committees and is listed in every Who's Who in the country.

Like Ted, Jim Morrison is a highly successful business leader. Jim, a Southern California native, is the founder and CEO of Morrison Insurance Services, Inc., widely recognized as one of Southern California's most knowledgeable and respected employee benefit providers. During his career Jim has served on the Advisory Councils of virtually every major insurance carrier and for almost a decade his firm has received the highest honors from the National Association of Health Underwriters. Jim sits on a number of boards and is very active in the San Diego community.

"Character, values, a proven track record and community involvement are key criteria for PCNB Board members and staff" states Michael Hahn, PCNB's President & CEO. "Ted and Jim have these values in abundance and we're proud to welcome them both to our Board."

PCNB, a pure-play commercial bank, helps business owners in the South Orange County and North San Diego County grow their businesses and personal net worth. Clients always have access to our senior management and we're proud to be ranked by the Orange County Business Journal as one of Southern California's most successful new banks over the past five years.
